OFFICE MEMORANDUM

Leakages in rising mains is a serious concern as it is known to every plant engineer. It is more because these are running continuously round the clock. The problem is compounded when the lines have a history of leakage particularly in the case of PSC lines. These lines must be under closer watch as impressed upon from time to time.

It has come to the notice that due inspection of these mains at the senior level of EE and SE is not being carried out in required frequency. It has been decided that apart from normal patrolling, the EE and SE should urgently take up such inspection daily in the morning. They should work out an inspection schedule judiciously so that each main is covered.

The daily inspection note should be sent to CE(WW), M(W.S.) and O.E.O. for their information. The CE(WW) and the undersigned will join independently in such inspections. Utmost vigilance at the plant level is necessary and strict action shall be initiated against the defaulting individuals.
